This nameless craft is, built of Spanish cedar, and is thirty-two feet in length. Her width in the centre is cleven and one-half inches—just Jimmy's dimensions. From the centre to the front she gradually tapers to three inches, and to the stern to two inches, her whole weight being thirty-two posseds. This fragile shell, in which the champlon is confident he can make time nevy er yet placed upon record, was built by McKay, of New York, the world-wide boat builder, and in Roberts' shop, under his watchful eye) lith street, Harlin square. Mr. Hammill informs us that his new boat is a much steadler shell than the "King," though three inches narrower. Her cost in New York Joseph Barkley. 180,00 to 200 was $150. She will be entered in the forthcoming regetts, but will not be pulled by Hammill, he having been ruled out of all single sculls during the regets. Jimmy, however, could not resist the temptation of taking an excursion in his pet, and says she is all "his fancy painted her." We may add that her builders are firmly of the belief, with Hammill to pull her, no shell that sever yet touched water, could make halling distance in a five mile race.
